Photo Feature of the Month

With faces all aglow, PAFCOE staff, Bible workers, students, Manila Center SDA Church Elders and Pastors hold a blissful pose at the pulpit together with the newly baptized members of our faith. This photo was taken after the baptism held at MCAC baptistery on April 1, 2017.

Letters/Reviews

"Greetings! Thank you for keeping us in constant touch with the PAFCOE Ministry. My heart is full of joy whenever I read how much the Lord is sustaining your ministry and the successful spiritual conversion stories of the souls your ministry has reached for Jesus."

-Tessa

"AWESOME!... just AWESOME!"

Our heavenly Father indeed works in very mysterious ways. He sees our hearts desires even in our sleep, He sees our dreams - to be able to completely dedicate ourselves to serving Him for His glory alone. Despite our frail bodies, health, and human weaknesses we are able to endure with the tasks He had begun in each and every one of us. I will always have you and PAFCOE in my prayers."

Director's Note

I was driving a borrowed old motorcycle through a very rocky and dusty mountain road on my way home when suddenly the thought came into my mind, "How can missionaries even survive doing this work for the rest of their lives?" Then I asked myself, "Are you seriously going to pursue this course?" Thankfully the Lord whispered a very familiar passage, "Let us not be weary in well doing: for in due season we shall reap, if we faint not."

"Yes!" I exclaimed. "If I would not faint, heaven is for me." I felt ecstatic with just the thought. I squeezed the accelerator and zoomed upon the rocks. I realized that focusing on the humps and bumps just slowed me down and the slower I got, the more I felt their harshness

I got the privilege of reading this whole publication before writing this note. As I read through, I came to another realization, "Yes! heaven is the final reward and to make the experience even more blessed, the sweet fruit of soul winning is always available for every missionary to see and savor along the way." It's just a matter of focus. We can choose to be like Jesus, "Who for the joy that was set before Him endured the cross, despising the shame, and is set down at the right hand of the throne of God."

Media Missionaries Fellowship

By Jelaville Luarez

With the vision of hastening Christ's coming through media, the NPUC Communication Department held an event called Media Missionaries Fellowship on April 8, 2017 at the AIAS Amphitheater, Silang, Cavite. This event resulted from the workshop conducted last February where every media team was encouraged to create a 5-minute video of a church member's conversion story. A number of media teams, mostly neophyte, submitted their video production and attended the event together with the talents of their conversion story.

Pastor Mamerto Guinguig (SSD Comm. Director), Pastor Romeo Mangiliman (NPUC President), Pastor Joel Sarmiento (NPUC Comm. Director), and media professionals namely Ms. Janet Tolete (PPH Associate Editor) and Ms. Leah Martinez (ABS-CBN Artist Talent Coordinator) gave inspiring lectures and messages.

The event's highlight was the video presentation of conversion stories that each media team had made. The bright faces of the viewers signified that they were inspired on how God works in wonderful ways just to bring the erring back to Him. Now, if the audience were inspired that day, how much more if there would be regular conversion stories aired in Hope Channel? Surely, more and more people will witness God's power in changing lives and He will be glorified. In addition, more SDAs will be committed to hasten the work through media ministry.

Pastor Sarmiento expressed his gratitude to those media teams who responded to the challenge and grew excited to hold more workshops for honing the talents God has given to the people in his territory. May God's guidance be upon the volunteers working in the PAFCOE media department as they seek to commit in producing more conversion stories for God's glory. ■

Nutty Green Pasta

By Jecris Jamis

Cashew nut is one of my chief ingredients in cooking since I started practicing plant-based diet or vegan vegetarian. It can be used as a substitute for milk due to its creamy texture when processed/blended. And because of that, you can make vegan cheese out of it as well as dressing for raw vegetable salads, cream for fruit salads and sauce for main dishes. Adding cashew nuts to your recipe make your food more palatable.

When it comes to health benefits, cashew nut is categorized as food for the nervous system since it is rich in B vitamins, particularly B1, B2, and B6. It is also rich in magnesium which helps your nerves to relax, promotes appetite, promotes healthy skin and eyes, prevents constipation and activates enzymes. Because of these vitamins and minerals found in cashew nut, it is recommended for treating illnesses like nervousness, irritability, anxiety, weakness, depression and dysmenorrhea. This wonder nut also contains good fat, protein and carbohydrates—a healthy add-on to your trail mix. So the next time you visit a healthy food store, look for cashew nuts and enjoy its healthy goodness! ■

Ingredients:

1 cup soaked cashew nuts
½ cup pure coconut milk
1 ½ cup fresh sweet basil leaves
3 tbsp. nutritional yeast
3 tbsp. kalamansi juice
salt to taste
1 kg cooked spiral San Remo pasta
3 pcs bulb onion, chopped
2 cloves garlic, minced
1 cup toasted peanut, grounded

Cooking Procedure:

1. Blend* the soaked cashew nuts with a cup of water until it becomes smooth. Then add the kalamansi juice, salt, sweet basil leaves, nutritional yeast and blend it until you get the consistency you desired.
2. Sauté the minced garlic in the sauce pan without using oil. Stir it until the garlic becomes golden brown. Add the chopped onion and continue to stir until the aroma comes out.
3. Add the blended ingredients in the saucepan then put the coconut milk.
4. Bring to boil in a low fire. Stir constantly until the sauce becomes thick. Then pour the green creamy sauce over the pasta.
5. Add toasted ground peanut and mix it together.

Servings: 10-12 persons

*You can use a food processor to achieve the consistency you desired.

A Helping Hand (III)

By Steve Dragoo

Have you seen this recent headline? “Nine-year-old donates birthday money to Children’s Hospital. His generosity is prompting other children to follow it.”

The Bible tells us that Jesus, our Savior and King donated His life to us so we might live through His royal blood. Some people, when they read this just yawn and might even be thinking: It is old news; I’ve heard it before—so what? Some might stir a little uneasy in their seats yet turn back to whatever they are doing and soon forget why they are alive. Then there are those who recognize daily the healing gift given long ago for them to live. This group does all they can to demonstrate their gratitude; doing everything within their power—always reaching heavenward. Their efforts have drawn them closer to God and cause them to behold more of His incredible love for humanity.

Why shouldn’t you benefit from this great gift of life and experience the peace and joy just like the last group does? Hopefully, you do know that you can live a joyful life—a life in perfect harmony with God.

Our walk with God is just like any relationship we want to be in or are already in. Once, I heard someone talking about relationship. “A relationship is not 50/50 percent; it is 100/100 percent.” Now, if you want to experience an intimate harmony with the ones you love, my deepest thoughts go out to you on how to thrive by giving 100 percent. After all, our Savior did. He held nothing back and He fully committed 100 percent to you even before you are brought into this world. Isn’t it amazing to think you know Someone who gave His all before you met Him? And like the 9 year old who gave of his heart, we earnestly desire to help you with your heart too—to live and thrive.

At PAFCOE, everywhere we turn we see the great need of reaching out to as many people as we can, but we cannot do it alone. This world requires finances to provide help to those around us and I know that some of you reading this have been greatly blessed with the increase. Now dear friend is the time to help us with all you can as we help all we are able. So I ask you, will you commit too, commit as others did? For the specific list of immediate needs please see the Prayer Board section of this publication and let me know what you can do.

Revelation 3:20 says, “Behold, I stand at the door, and knock: if any man hear my voice, and open the door, I will come in to him, and will sup with him, and he with me.” ■

I look forward to hear your answer. My email is stevend703@gmail.com. If you prefer to reach the finance coordinator, here is the email: pafcoefinance@gmail.com.

The Sweet Fruit of Soul-winning

By Jelaville Luarez

As the completion of the prophecy seminar was approaching, the PAFCOE staff, Bible Workers, and students grew excited that the busiest time will soon end but at the same time they were eager to know what will be the result of their labor.

On the Sabbath morning of April 1, Pingol gave his last altar call. Prayers were silently uttered for the attendees who were in the valley of decision. Wonder of all wonders, a good number of them bravely stood up and walked towards the front to accept Jesus in their lives. Seeing the attendees who sincerely stood and even shed tears, the PAFCOE team could not help but praise God for the victory of truth in these people's heart.

Later in the afternoon, the team brought the baptism candidates to Manila Center SDA Church for the sacred rite. Happiness marked the faces of them that were now in baptismal robes. They would soon be buried in the watery grave and have a new life in Jesus.

Indeed, God had won their hearts. They all have different stories to tell on how God brought them to the fold, and that would be their testimony to others forever.

Following the Truth

"Every Friday, Saturday, and Sunday I went to the church and uttered the prayer I memorized since childhood. Though I repeatedly uttered those prayers, I felt like it did not seem to count because I didn't obtain the blessings I prayed for. Our life was still so hard,"

Milagros recounted.

One day, she met a PAFCOE student in the street. She was invited to attend the seminar at Manresa. Her love for God motivated her to heed the invitation. There, she learned many truths like the Sabbath and how to keep it. She also learned that wearing jewelry is not pleasing to His sight. She thought that her faithfulness in keeping the traditions made her a better person, but the truths from the Bible opened her eyes. She realized that what she was practicing was not a thus saith the Lord.

She admitted, "When I decided to accept the truths I learned, I threw away my rosaries and I earnestly prayed to God that He would help me to follow Him wholeheartedly. When I kept on attending the seminar I noticed some significant blessings that happened in our lives. Two members of our family got a job. Being in the truth is a blessed life!"

Milagros got baptized. She is not only faithful in attending the mid-week, vespers, and the Sabbath worship services at Manresa but is also sharing her new found faith to her family and friends.

Not of the World Anymore

"I was in the world, doing fun, making people popular. My clients were socialites, celebrities, and famous people. I actually produced beauty queens. Because of my profession, life then was just so easy for me. I could get what I wanted. Even a half-day shooting of TV

Cover Story

commercial would give me a five-digit amount. I felt that I got everything in life,” Robert shared, a known beautician in the TV industry.

During those moments when he thought that he had everything, God stepped in and caused him to see his real needs. One of his workmates invited him for a Bible Study. He learned many truths especially about the Sabbath and Health. His conviction to follow what he learned from the Word of God brought a drastic change in his way of living. He no longer accepted appointments on Sabbath. Thus, his clients and contact persons left him and his compensation automatically went to zero.

In the trying times of his life, God comforted him through the programs aired by Amazing Facts TV and 3ABN. Providentially, he met a PAFCE staff and referred him to the Bible Workers. They invited him to attend the seminar at Manresa. There, he learned more of the Bible truths. After the seminar, he decided to give His life to Jesus.

“Though I lost all, I thanked God because I have that peace that passes all understanding, being right with God. Now, I just have enough. I thanked God for He has been sustaining me,” he concluded.

The Challenge

There are still many remarkable stories from the attendees of the evangelistic effort at Manresa. God is really powerful that He can change lives dramatically. However, the work does not end there. Pingol stated, “Actually, the most challenging part of evangelism is the nurturing... how to keep them together.”

By the way, what is happening in Manresa is a church planting project. As of this time the newly baptized are having worship services at the 3rd floor of the Barangay’s hall. By His grace, the new congregation actively participates in different programs essential for their spiritual growth. They need to grow from babes of faith to spiritual giants.

Recognizing the new members’ need, the topics presented every meeting are focused on how to develop a personal Bible study, deepening the prayer life, getting involved in witnessing, and others. Pingol commented, “I am so amazed. God is really working here at Manresa. The newly baptized are so faithful in attending the services. They are so eager to grow and learn more truths.”

The worship services are not only attended by the newly baptized but by the regular attendees of the prophecy seminar as well. May the latter group will soon decide to join the fold. Let us keep this soon-to-be-established church in our prayers.

Seeing the actual working of the Holy Spirit there, the true joy of winning souls is indeed satisfying. It is sweet. Psalm 126:6 reminds us that “he that goeth forth and weepeth, bearing precious seed, shall doubtless come again with rejoicing, bringing his sheaves with him.” Thus, “let us not be weary in well doing: for in due season we shall reap, if we faint not (Galatians 6:9).” ■

Spiritual Farmers

One morning I met a couple. I started to conduct a survey and then offered a Bible study. The wife accepted, but the husband rejected because he said he had a work. The next morning, I shared the first lesson to nanay Esther. After 3 sessions I noticed that she lost her interest in listening. I didn't know why but whenever I went to their house nobody would answer me when I called. Sometimes I caught her hiding; other times I caught her pretending to be asleep. For several days the situation was like that. I almost wanted to stop in reaching them out, but I gave them one last try.

Give Them One Last Try

By Joshua Godilo

“ As I reflect on this experience I come to appreciate the truth that in perseverance there's a sweet reward. ”

The next day I set out for the last visit and that time, nanay was wide awake! Her husband, tatay Ely, was present. I conducted the next lesson to the couple, but later tatay went out. He always did that whenever he was around during the Bible study.

The appointed time for the prophecy seminar to begin came. On the first day I went to their house to invite them. I saw a flyer in tatay Ely's hand. “Is this yours?” he asked. “Yes,” I answered. “I am interested in this!” he exclaimed. So I invited him to come and he said that he will try.

Nanay Esther came so early because she wanted to avail the free health services. When the seminar was about to start, I saw tatay Ely walking towards the registration table. “Yes!” I uttered in joy. I prayed earnestly that he would not stop attending the seminar. And the Lord answered my plea.

One morning tatay Ely and I had a deep conversation. He told me that he couldn't understand himself why he kept on attending. According to him it seemed that somebody was pushing and telling him to go to the seminar. He shared how he bore the mockery of his friends when he left while they were drinking alcohol so that he couldn't miss a single topic. As I listened to him, I believed that the Holy Spirit was working in his heart.

The couple continued to attend the seminar. They decided to be baptized and gave their lives to Jesus. Nanay Esther could not contain her joy as she saw her husband no longer a cigarette smoker and a drunkard. Both of them are happy to see the changes in their lives through knowing and accepting Jesus as their personal Savior.

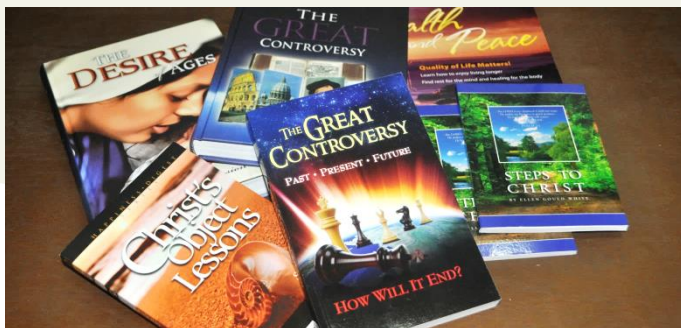

I don't know what will happen if in the first place I surrendered and stopped going to their house. There might be no nanay Esther and tatay Ely in the newly established congregation at Manresa, Quezon City.

As I reflect on this experience I come to appreciate the truth that in perseverance there's a sweet reward. Yes, as we work in His vineyard, we don't really know what will be the result of our labor. But let us always remember that His Word will never return unto Him void. “In the morning sow thy seed, and in the evening withhold not thine hand: for thou knowest not whether shall prosper, either this or that, or whether they both shall be alike good” (Ecclesiastes 11:6). ■

Reaching Out Through Literature Evangelism

Though PAFCOE is best known for its Public Evangelism training, it does not rest content to let the students go out of its premises without equipping them in another line of work, the Literature Evangelism. PAFCOE understands so well that the work doesn't end at the pulpit and that not everybody will be reached through evangelistic meetings. The pen of inspiration says, "There are many places in which the voice of the minister cannot be heard, places which can be reached only by our publications... filled with the Bible truths that the people need." (Colporteur Ministry, p. 4)

"Here at PAFCOE, I thank God because once again I've been given the privilege to work as a literature evangelist. During our outreach time, I met a good number of people who accepted the literatures I presented to them. Yes, some were hesitant at first but when the Holy Spirit worked in their heart they found the book valuable and bought it. My heart was filled with joy as I picture them reading the truth-filled publications. I have kept this in mind that the joy of serving Him is the most rewarding part of being a partaker of His work. Surely, the literature ministry is a work ordained by the Lord and those who work for Him wholly will be blessed as they become a blessing to others."—Geraldyn

"My partner and I decided to do canvassing in a hospital. We met rejections but we never gave up; we prayed instead. As we passed by a window, we saw a new born baby. The father looked so happy and so we decided to offer a prayer. Then we took another step, looking for prospects. But God impressed me to give him a book as a gift. I took the Great Controversy and handed it to him. He smiled widely as he thanked us. We continued our canvassing work and God brought us to the persons in need of the book. Some of those we approached didn't buy, but gave us donation instead. My partner and I decided that the proceeds would be used to buy two presenters for our OJT. As we audit the money in the comfort room, we realized that it was insufficient to have even one. We prayed to the Lord that He would provide us enough to buy two. Then we continued to walk with a hope that He will provide. As we came near to an office, we saw a woman inside talking to someone on the phone. We waited until she was done. We approached her and told her what we were doing. Towards the end of our conversation, she gave us one thousand pesos. We thanked her and offered a prayer. Before we left, she took another one thousand pesos! Tears misted our eyes as we went out. Joy filled our heart we ended our canvassing with prayer. Praise God for His faithfulness!"—Delsa

"I found canvassing as the hardest part of the training because it was my first time to do this line of work. I didn't know how to start it right. I needed more courage to approach and convince them to avail the publications.

One outreach day, before I knocked, I uttered a silent prayer. First I endorsed the Health and Peace but they answered, 'We have doctors in our family and we have a regular check-up with them, so I think we don't need that book.' Then I tried to present another, but still they refused. I took the Great Controversy and presented it to them. 'Honestly, we already have those because we have spiritual counsellors and we are always going to church,' he said. I grew so hopeless at that time and felt discouraged that I didn't want to continue doing LE. But the man said, 'Maybe next time or try to endorse to others, because we already have doctors and spiritual counsellors and they are Seventh-day Adventists.' Those words gave me hope even if he didn't buy the books. I hope that through those Seventh-day Adventist counsellors they will come to know the truth.

I have learned from this experience that doing literature evangelism is not just about how much or how many books you can sell but it is all about how many souls you can win through the publications. I have realized that literature evangelism work is one of heaven's means to open the heart of people as we share to them the love of God."—Glady

Student Life

"I received an FB messenger call from ate Sherly, my Bible interest four years ago while I joined literature ministry during my college days. She asked for help and expressed how she missed the time when we conducted a Bible study with her, so I decided to visit her the next day.

When I went to their house, she warmly welcomed me. I inquired her using FORT method and did a health survey to her. I found out that she's psychologically ill. She was addicted into illegal drugs before and the side effects caused her body to become weak. The fear of dying too early brought a ton of worries in her heart because her children are still young. I told her about changing her lifestyle, and amazingly I was surprised to hear her saying that she's now practicing a vegetarian diet through reading Healthy Diet. I told her about Jesus and since my time was short I gave her Steps To Christ. When she saw the other books I brought with me, she inquired if those were for sale. I said yes. The book The Great Controversy caught her attention and she shared that somebody told her how nice the book was. But that time her budget was not for buying books. So I told her that I would just leave the books and she could give the payment to the Bible worker whom I planned to ask for a follow-up Bible study with her. Suddenly, she changed her mind and gave me five hundred pesos. With the books in her hand, she expressed her gratitude for visiting her in times of distress. Heavenly joy filled me as we prayed together before I bade her goodbye."—Ralph

Praise God for the divine appointments that these students had during their literature evangelism days! They did not only gain an experience but also became instrumental in leading people to the foot of the cross. May the Holy Spirit guide those who availed the truth-filled publication as they read it and in turn His kingdom will be enlarged. ■

Graduate Spotlight

Jesus said, Suffer little children, and forbid them not, to come unto me: for such is the kingdom of heaven.

Matthew 19:14

After graduating from PAFCE, God called me to work in Tawi-Tawi. It's the territory of Muslim people. My work is to teach our little Muslim brothers and sisters who are studying in an SDA Layman Elementary School.

While here, I realize that God has really a wonderful plan in my life. He let me joined Amazing Facts program and taught me how to love and teach the children. He has equipped me in such a way that I can also share His wonderful stories to the Muslim children. In our Values class I'm using the Amazing Facts' child evangelism program in telling my students stories about Jesus' life and teaching them Bible verses through songs. For them it's just a subject where they can hear stories and learn new songs, but for me it's my way of sharing the gospel to them.

I never regretted that I joined PAFCE because it helps me to cultivate a personal relationship with God. It helps me not to be ashamed in teaching Jesus' wonderful promises to the Muslim children. In spite of the challenges that are happening, bomb threats, kidnap news, and drug abuse in the place the sharing of the gospel is still going on. Praises be to the God in heaven for His coming is very near. ■

Q: Was Judas Iscariot Predestined to Betray Jesus?

By Elfeujun Sampaga

The gospel of Matthew depicts the betrayal of Judas Iscariot as a prophetic fulfillment. Psalm 49:1 contains the prophecy, “Yea, mine own familiar friend, in whom I trusted, which did eat of my bread, hath lifted up his heel against me,” and is fulfilled in Matt. 26:14, 48-49. Another prophecy found in Zechariah 11:12-13 states, “I told them, ‘If you think it best, give me my pay; but if not, keep it.’ So they paid me thirty pieces of silver. And the LORD said to me, ‘Throw it to the potter’—the handsome price at which they priced me!” So I took the thirty pieces of silver and threw them into the house of the LORD to the potter;” its fulfillment is recorded in Matt. 27:3-5.

The passages above show that God knew Judas would betray Jesus—the betrayal that led Jesus to die on the cross for the redemption of mankind. But this reality sometimes prompts people to ask, “Does it mean that Judas was predestined to betray Him?” The certainty that God can see the future is a fact that we cannot argue. He knows everyone whether he/she will choose to love Him and obey or to choose to deny Him and reject His saving grace. Now, does that mean God predestined everyone? The answer is NO.

Isaiah 46:10 tells us, “Declaring the end from the beginning, and from ancient times the things that are not yet done, saying, My counsel shall stand, and I will do all my pleasure.” God knows our choices before we are even born, but it does not mean that He causes us to become thus. I am sure Jesus did everything to bring the truth to the heart of Judas. Prophecy was written not because God decides who will be saved or not, rather it was written for us to see that He knows our choices and the results of them.

The Holy Spirit inspired Zechariah to prophesy with regards to Judas’ betrayal and this simply means that Judas would eventually choose to betray Jesus, not because God caused it but because Judas chose to. The Bible also clarifies that Satan entered unto Judas and led him to betray Jesus (John 13:26-27). In his life, Judas had choices to make and all of his choices led him to be a vessel of Satan’s evil workings for the betrayal of the Savior.

“For I know the thoughts that I think toward you, saith the LORD, thoughts of peace, and not of evil, to give you an expected end.”

God knows our choices in the future and it should not cause us trouble, instead joy and confidence in Him. The Bible tells us in Jeremiah 29:11, “For I know the thoughts that I think toward you, saith the LORD, thoughts of peace, and not of evil, to give you an expected end.” May we trust in God even more because He loves us and wants only the good things for us. Let us submit our lives to His will that He can bring us unto salvation. ■
